TARGET PERSONA

Home bakers and food enthusiasts aged 25–45 who seek to recreate authentic bakery experiences at home and are attracted to limited-time, seasonal, or regionally inspired flavors.

VALUE PROPOSITION

General Mills will offer a rotating selection of fresh dough variants inspired by popular bakery styles—such as sourdough, brioche, and artisan flavors—available exclusively for limited periods. This approach encourages trial and repeat visits by leveraging the appeal of scarcity and novelty, while enabling home bakers to achieve bakery-quality results with convenience. Product launches are tied to seasons or regional trends, fostering a sense of discovery and urgency. The offering is designed for ease of use, with clear instructions and premium ingredients, ensuring a consistent, fresh-baked experience at home.

BUSINESS IMPACT

This initiative is expected to drive incremental sales by increasing basket size among existing customers and attracting new ones seeking premium, unique at-home baking experiences. The limited-time model creates urgency and repeat visits, supporting demand spikes and brand engagement without overextending supply chains or inventory risk.
